

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. ## Preface

This year's Register Board has been somewhat handicapped by rising printing costs which have necessitated a further slight advance in the selling price. The high standard and quality of the work however, we hope, has been retained, and special emphasis has been laid upon trying to avoid all possible inaccuracies in the data. For any mistakes which by chance have crept in, we trust the reader will be lenient. The time of publication has been rigidly adhered to so as to be of the utmost benefit for a College directory.

Volume XLVI contains a few new features to make it more valuable. Particularly, a map showing the location of the College dormitories and also the social clubs has been inserted with the hopes that it may be of service. The compilation of the Endowment Fund's progress has been noted to the moment of the book's going to press, and more space has been devoted to the Union in accord with its continually rising place in the undergraduate life.

The Editors of the Register wish to acknowledge their indebtedness to the offices of the University, of the Athletic Association, of the Crimson, of the Phillips Brooks House, and to all others who have rendered invaluable aid in making this volume a success. They sincerely trust that this success has been attained, and that any suggestions for the further improvement of the Register will be forthcoming.

Fair Harvard

*Fair Harvard! thy sons to thy jubilee throng,
And with blessings surrender thee o'er,
By these festival rites, from the age that is past
To the age that is waiting before.
O, relic and type of our ancestors' worth,
That has long kept their memory warm,
First flower of their wilderness! star of their night!
Calm rising thro' change and thro' storm.*

*To thy bowers we were led in the bloom of our youth,
From the home of our free-roving years,
When our fathers had warned, and our mothers had prayed,
And our sisters had blest, through their tears.
Thou then wert our parent,—the nurse of our souls,—
We were moulded to manhood by thee,
Till, freighted with treasure—thoughts, friendships, and hopes,
Thou didst launch us on destiny's sea.*

*When, as pilgrims, we come to revisit thy halls,
To what Kindlings the season gives birth!
Thy shades are more soothing, thy sunlight more dear,
Than descend on less privileged earth:
For the good and the great, in their beautiful prime,
Through thy precincts have musingly trod,
As they girded their spirits, or deepened the streams
That make glad the fair City of God.*

*Farewell! be thy destinies onward and bright!
To thy children the lesson still give,
With freedom to think, and with patience to bear,
And for right ever bravely to live.
Let not moss-covered error moor thee at its side,
As the world on truth's current glides by;
Be the herald of light, and the bearer of love,
Till the stock of the Puritans die.*

The Graduate Schools

Much of the material in this part is published by the courtesy of the Harvard Federation of Territorial Clubs, being taken from their book entitled "Harvard of To-Day."

Excellent opportunities for advanced study at Harvard are afforded by the various graduate schools. Generally speaking, an A.B. or S.B. degree or sufficient specialized preparation is requisite for entrance, and the regular term of study varies with the different schools from one to four years. In planning a college course it is well to look ahead, and it may be that the following information from representatives of the several schools will be helpful. The University publishes separate pamphlets describing the schools, which may be obtained on application.

Graduate School of Arts and Sciences

The Graduate School of Arts and Sciences includes those men working for the degrees of A.M. and Ph.D. and also many college graduates pursuing advanced non-professional studies without reference to the attainment of a degree. The total membership in 1919-20 is 515, distributed principally among the departments of Ancient Languages, Modern Languages, Philosophy, Mathematics, Biology, Chemistry, Physics, and Education. These men come from all parts of this country, and to some extent from foreign countries; indeed, the newcomer at the school is usually struck by the heterogeneity of the men in their studies and in their origins. It is easy to see what chances for exchange of ideas lie in the bringing together of so many kinds of talents, opinions, prejudices, and temperaments.

The great advantage the School offers—and one which can hardly be matched in this country—is the close relationship between student and professor. At Harvard the advanced student in almost any department has the personal supervision, even companionship, of men of the first rank in their subjects. Less important, but hardly less, are the library facilities. I refer not only to the great extent and value of the collections in Harvard and Boston libraries, but to the readiness of access allowed the advanced student. At Harvard the stacks are thrown open to him; in Boston the courtesies are hardly less extensive; and there are several special libraries, devoted to books on many single or related subjects, where he is always welcomed.

The University is drawing together the social life of the graduate students by devoting Conant Hall, on Oxford Street, to men in the Graduate Schools. The plan has been highly successful, for Conant, which accommodates about one hundred men, is in great demand. It has a splendid, large common room, used by the Hall as a lounge and reading room, and by various scholastic clubs as a meeting place. This common room, and indeed Conant Hall itself, constitutes the center of the social life of the School.

A word about the relation of the Graduate School to the College and its activities. The School, to be sure, is a separate entity. At the same time, the members of the College and School attend the same lecture halls, dine at the same dining halls, and thus come in contact constantly. The graduate student, as well as the undergraduate, is entitled to all the social and athletic privileges afforded by the University.

The Law School

The Harvard Law School is the oldest of the existing law schools in the country. It has attained its present position among law schools by the high professional standing of its graduates and by the invention of a method of legal instruction called the "case system". Before the administration of Dean Langdell, eminent jurists had taught the students by lectures supplemented by the study of legal treatises. This system did not give the training and facility in the actual methods of the best legal practice. A practising lawyer presents his case with citation of other cases, and his final authority and test of law lie largely in court decisions. Dean Langdell therefore introduced a system of instruction whereby the student was trained to use as original authorities the published decisions of courts. The success of the "case system" has caused it to spread through the law schools of the country.

This method of teaching law requires a large and fully equipped library. The Harvard Law School has such a library. Indeed, Professor Dicey of Oxford has pronounced it "the most perfect collection of legal records in the English-speaking world."

Lawyers bred at Harvard have proved to be so sound and successful in practice that the School has increased rapidly in size. During the current year, there are enrolled in the school eight hundred and seventy-three men. These men represent the best types of college graduate, and the average ability is extraordinarily high. Such a student body is splendidly equipped to make the most of the study of the law by means of the case system.

The fact that a man who has made a good record at the Harvard Law School has a certain prestige when he seeks a position after graduation, may partly account for the keen competition for the leading places in the class. Unlike most undergraduate scholastic competitions, the struggle is not confined to a few of the more studiously inclined.

Every man is given an opportunity to join a law club and almost all avail themselves of the chance. A club is composed of eight men from each class. The members of the first-year class argue cases before an upper classman who presides as chief justice. Later in the course a competition is held between the clubs, known as the Ames Competition, for which prizes are given. The law clubs have proved valuable in teaching men how to search the authorities, and present an argument effectively.

The Harvard Law Review, which has gained an enviable reputation as a sound legal journal, elects to its editorial board twelve or more men from each class at the beginning of the second year, on the basis of ability shown in the first year's work. Only legal ability and character gain a man standing among his fellows, and where men of every type and from nearly every state are working together with a common serious purpose, it is easy to make acquaintances and to form lasting friendships. Amid such surroundings the life of the school could not be other than attractive for the man who enjoys legal work.

The Divinity School

The preparation of men for the Christian ministry has been one of the functions of Harvard since the foundation of the College in 1636 by the colonists who "dreaded to leave an illiterate ministry to our churches when our present ministers shall lie in the dust." Harvard College provided a large number of ministers for the New England churches during the 17th and 18th centuries, and the oldest professorship in the University is the Hollis Professorship of Divinity (1721). In 1816 the Divinity School was definitely differentiated from the college as a distinctly professional school. It now offers a three years' course in preparation for the degree of Bachelor of Theology, for men, already Bachelors of Arts, going into the active ministry, and opportunities for advanced study leading to the degrees of Master of Theology and Doctor of Theology, intended especially for men who expect to teach theology.

The School has never required any denominational test, its constitution, which dates from 1816, prescribing that "every encouragement shall be given to the serious, impartial, and unbiased investigation of Christian truth, and no assent to the peculiarities of any denomination of Christians shall be required of either instructors or students." The administration of the School is carefully conformed to this principle. Various denominations are represented in its Faculty and among its students.

Divinity Hall, a charming old ivy-covered brick building on Divinity Avenue opposite the eastern front of the University Museum, is the dormitory for the School. It dates from 1826 and contains the Common Room, and the Chapel, which is one of the most interesting historical rooms in the University. Most of the lectures in the School are given in the Divinity Library, adjoining Divinity Hall.

The handsome stone buildings of Andover Theological Seminary lie a little to the east of the Divinity School, facing on Francis Avenue. The two schools hold joint services of worship, and arrange their courses on a basis of co-operation rather than of competition. Andover Seminary has been, since 1908, closely affiliated with the Divinity School. More recent and looser affiliations have also been made with the Episcopal Theological School, Boston University School of Theology, and the Newton Theological Institution. The Andover-Harvard Theological Library is a very rich collection, and the combined resources of the Divinity School and the affiliated institutions offer opportunities for theological education equalled in but few other places.

The Medical School

The Harvard Medical School has had a long and honorable history. Beginning in a little building about the size of a small country school-house, it has several times outgrown its quarters till in 1906 it was moved to its present magnificent situation. The school now has an equipment that is not equalled by any medical school in this country. The five gray marble structures connected by hallways and porches make a group which every passerby admires, and which fills with pride the hearts of those who work within them.

The admission requirements are, generally speaking, a degree in Arts or Science from an approved college or scientific school, or two years of undergraduate work during which a rank in the first third of the class has been maintained, with a reading knowledge of French or German and certain work in scientific subjects.

It is, however, the men who direct the work, rather than the magnificence of the equipment, that makes a school great. A glance at the list of the Faculty of Medicine will show the names of men of national and international reputation who are working in these laboratories and directing the students who are under them. They are men of inspiring character, and are always ready to help their students. We are proud of our equipment, but we are prouder still of the staff of men who direct the School's work and who have made notable contributions to the advancement of Medical Science.

The hospitals and institutions which are grouped about the Harvard Medical School or are near at hand in Boston afford unsurpassed facilities for clinical instruction. These institutions contain over two thousand patients whose cases are available for teaching purposes.

Aside from the regular assigned work, there are many opportunities in spare hours for the student who is ambitious to do special research under the immediate personal direction and supervision of the Professors of the various departments. This kind of work is intensely interesting, and its value to the student cannot be overestimated.

The Medical School is not lacking in social life. The Students' Association, to which every student of the School belongs, holds two meetings a year at which some distinguished person speaks. The meeting at the beginning of the academic year is a reception to the new men. Each class has an occasional smoker and an annual banquet, which are always enjoyed. Late in the spring the School grants a holiday, and all the classes join in a picnic down Boston harbor.

The Dental School

The Harvard Dental School is established in Boston and was instituted by vote of the President and Fellows of Harvard College, July 17, 1867. The first session of the School opened on the first Wednesday in November, 1867, and continued until the following March. The first examination of candidates for the degree of the School was held March 6, 1869.

Instruction in this School is given throughout the academic year, by lectures, recitations, clinical teaching, and practical exercises, uniformly distributed. The programme of instruction is progressive, and occupies four years.

Biology, anatomy, histology, physiology, physiological and dental chemistry, general pathology, oral anatomy, histology (normal and pathological), and bacteriology are pursued in the Harvard Medical School.

The degree of Doctor of Dental Medicine is given, on recommendation by the Faculty of Medicine, on the completion of the four years' course. The degree is given in two grades.

It is the object of the Faculty to present a complete course of instruction in the theory and practice of Dentistry; and for this purpose a well-appointed laboratory and infirmary are provided. Clinical instruction is given by the professors and other instructors; and each day patients are assigned to the students, ensuring to all the opportunity of operating at the chair, and becoming trained by actual practice in all the operations demanded of the dentist.

Students have access to the hospitals of the city, and are assigned to service in the Massachusetts General Hospital.

Graduate School of Business Administration

The Business School requires that all men taking full work shall be college graduates, except that very exceptional men who do not hold a college degree may be admitted as regular students upon passing with high distinction certain exacting examinations prescribed by the Faculty. These requirements make the School unique among similar institutions of this country, most of which seek to combine collegiate and professional training. The student body is, therefore, composed of college men from all parts of the country—indeed, from many parts of the world—who have completed their undergraduate work and are engaging in a serious study of business as a profession.

The School of Business Administration is primarily designed for those aiming to fit themselves for the ultimate attainment of posts of responsibility and leadership in the business world. It is a school of extraordinarily high standards, which seeks to train liberally educated men in the broader principles of modern business, and above all to lead them to think rightly and accurately upon business subjects.

The courses of instruction are grouped under thirteen heads: Accounting, Commercial Law, Marketing, Industrial Management, General Business Problems, Business Statistics, Foreign Trade, Banking and Finance, Transportation, Insurance, Printing and Publishing, Local Public Utilities, Lumbering. Each student is given ample opportunity to elect such work as will particularly fit him for the field he plans to enter. Two years' study is necessary to obtain the degree of Master in Business Administration.

The School is happily rich in friends and supporters. Business men from every line of industry take an active part in its affairs. The system of instruction includes lectures and talks by such men. Numerous business houses, factories, and shops are open to the students for class and individual investigations. In one course each student has an "advisor" who is an active business man and who directs the student's work in some phase of the business. The opportunity the School affords for interesting study is unlimited.

The Bussey Institution

The Bussey Institution, grown up since its founding in 1871 from a mere undergraduate school of agriculture to a position of importance in the world of science, provides a chance for investigation into all the practical problems of Botany and Zoology. Its buildings and grounds are located at Forest Hills, within the city limits of Boston. Next to it, on a great tract of 304 acres, is the Arnold Arboretum, a splendid museum of trees and shrubs, devoted to experiments in arboriculture and forestry.

The Institution offers a course of study of two years, leading to the degree of Master of Science or Master of Forestry. As at present worked out, emphasis is being laid in the course upon the experimental study of insects, the laws of heredity in animals and plants, a study of the effect of environment on plants, and the science of forest management. The facilities for the purpose are unusual, due both to its constant co-operation with the other University departments, and the easy access to the Arboretum, the Gray Herbarium, and, though at a greater distance, the Museum of Comparative Zoology in Cambridge. The exceptionally fine Harvard Forest at Petersham is an especially important source of material.

The Engineering School

The Lawrence Scientific School was established in 1847; the Graduate Schools of Applied Science in 1906; and a cooperative agreement in engineering and mining with the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in 1914; in 1917 the courts decided that the agreement was not legal; and in 1918 The Harvard Engineering School was established.

The Harvard Engineering School offers (a) well-balanced four-year undergraduate programs open to graduates of high schools and academies, and leading to the degree of Bachelor of Science; and (b) unusual opportunities for graduate study and research leading to higher degrees, in the following departments of study: Mechanical Engineering, Electrical Engineering, Civil Engineering, Sanitary Engineering, Mining, Metallurgy, and Industrial Chemistry.

There are two plans of admission to the first year of the School, which are the same as for admission to the freshman class of Harvard College. Neither of these two plans requires any knowledge of Latin or Greek, nor are these subjects required for a degree in the School. Either of these subjects, however, or both, may be offered for admission. On the other hand, students are urged to offer for admission Trigonometry, Physics, Chemistry, and two modern languages. Each plan has much flexibility and by means of one or the other any graduate of a good high school should be able to fulfill the necessary requirements for admission.

The relations between this School and Harvard College are close. Undergraduate students in the School have all the rights and privileges of students in the College; and all the courses in the first two years of the School are with minor exceptions offered to students in Harvard College, and may be counted toward its degrees. In fact, more than half of every undergraduate program is made up of such courses. A student in the College may, therefore, transfer to the School without loss of time at the end of his freshman or sophomore year. At the end of his junior year or after graduation from the College (or from another college) he may enter the third year of the School, and in two more years obtain his engineering degree.

The School offers to young men the opportunity to fit themselves for a profession under a group of men eminent both as teachers and engineers, and a wealth of opportunities open to all students in this great University. The staff of the School numbers about forty teachers of technical subjects, more than half of them being of professorial rank. Instruction in other sciences, mathematics, and general subjects, is given by members of other faculties which offer many courses of especial value to students of engineering. The aims which have served as controlling considerations in the selection of the teaching staff and in the laying out of the instruction of the School are: to train men to think; to lay a broad and deep foundation with an outline of the superstructure which can be filled in gradually from the training and observation which come from practical experience; to encourage the student so thoroughly to understand each problem, that he can apply the same principles intelligently to the solution of entirely different kinds of problems; and finally to train men to be good citizens as well as good engineers.

The classrooms, offices, and laboratories of the School are located in Pierce Hall, the "Laboratories of Mechanical and Civil Engineering" (a new building recently purchased from the United States Navy), the Cruft Laboratory (of radio-telegraphic engineering), and the Rotch Building. Summer surveying work is carried on at the Harvard Engineering Camp at Squam Lake, N. H. and at the Mining Camp at South Strafford, Vermont. Instruction in chemistry and other subjects is given in the laboratories and classrooms of other departments.

The Schools of Architecture and of Landscape Architecture

These two schools are grouped under the Faculty of Architecture. Robinson Hall, which they occupy, is one of the best equipped buildings in the College yard, exclusive of the Widener Library. It contains full size casts of important pieces of architecture and a collection of original marble fragments of Greek, Roman, and Italian Renaissance detail. The second story is occupied by the drawing rooms and library of the School of Architecture. Instruction in the two schools is generally independent, but the subjects are so closely related that the collections of each school are of advantage to the other, and it is convenient to each set of students to be in contact with work in the allied subject.

Instruction in Landscape Architecture is based on a knowledge of topographical surveying, botany, geology, horticulture, and forestry. The equipment of the University in these subjects is exceptional. The University Museum, the Botanic Garden, the Arnold Arboretum, and the Engineering Camp at Squam Lake comprise a part of the many opportunities which are available in the study of Landscape Architecture.

The Graduate School of Education.

Systematic instruction in Education was first given in Harvard University in 1891, when Paul Henry Hanus was appointed Assistant Professor of the History and Art of Teaching. The courses in Education were given in the Division of Philosophy until 1906, when the instructors in Education were organized as a separate Division of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences. The degree of Master of Arts of a program of studies in the field of Education was first conferred by Harvard University in 1896; and the degree of Doctor of Philosophy in 1905. The Graduate School of Education is in effect a re-organization and enlargement of the work of the Division of Education, in recognition of the further need for the professional training of teachers and school officers and for the study of educational problems.

The Graduate School of Education has the following aims:

1. To provide introductory training for prospective teachers and school officers.—Inexperienced students will find in the School the opportunity to study the principles and problems of education in general and with respect to special fields, such as secondary education, and also the opportunity to secure an apprenticeship in teaching.

2. To provide advanced training for experienced teachers and school officers.—Those who look forward to future activity as principals, superintendents of schools, normal-school teachers, specialists in certain fields, and college teachers of Education, will find in the School opportunity for the study of their professional problems.

3. To provide for original investigation and experiment in Education and for constructive contributions to the theory and practice of teaching and educational administration.—A further important aim of the school is to provide opportunity for the study of Education from the standpoint of the citizen. Accordingly, the instructors of the School give certain courses under the Faculty of Arts and Sciences which deal with Education as of interest to all university students, whether they intend to become teachers or not. Such courses may also serve as an introduction to later technical study and research.

The courses offered in the School are of a strictly technical character and lead to the professional degrees of Master of Education and Doctor of Education. They are arranged in curricula intended to prepare students for positions as teachers in secondary schools, superintendents of schools and other officers of educational administration, teachers or supervisors of playgrounds and recreation centers, directors of club and camp work and teachers or supervisors of physical education, principals and teachers in vocational schools and vocational and educational advisers, school psychologists and specialists in the testing of school children, specialists in the care and training of the feeble-minded, educational statisticians, elementary-school supervisors and principals, normal-school teachers, and college teachers of Education.

The School maintains a Laboratory of Educational Psychology, a Psycho-Educational Clinic, a Bureau of Vocational Guidance, and a Collection of Tests and Measures. These organizations all contribute to the conduct of research in the school, and the school systems of neighboring towns and cities afford excellent opportunities both for research and for apprentice teaching. The School conducts many courses in the summer. An Appointment Committee serves the professional interests of the graduates of the School and meets the calls from public and private institutions for trained leaders in the various fields of educational work.

Harvard Law School Association

The objects of this Association are to advance the cause of legal education, to promote the interests and increase the usefulness of the Harvard Law School, and to promote mutual acquaintance and good-fellowship among the members of the Association. All graduates, all former members of the Harvard Law School, and all present members of the Harvard Law School who have been such for at least one academic year exclusive of Commencement Week, may become members of this Association. Approximate membership, 2300. Dues: annual, $2.00; life, $25.00.

The Harvard Musical Association

In 1837 the honorary and immediate members of the Pierian Sodality formed themselves into an association for the cultivation of musical taste and science, and for the introduction of music as a regular branch of instruction at Harvard College. The name, "The Harvard Musical Association," was not adopted until 1840. Since then the Association has had an important influence on the development of musical instruction at Harvard. Its most significant mission has been the shaping of the public opinion in regard to music in Boston. The Symphony Orchestra and the Cecilia Club were both organized by members of the Association. The clubhouse is at 57A Chestnut St., Boston, where there is a notable library of music. Of the three hundred resident members, at least two-thirds must be alumni of Harvard or some other college. Annual dues: $10.00.

Constitution of Student Council

The purpose of this Council is to co-operate thoroughly with the Faculty in raising the general intellectual standard at Harvard as stated in the undergraduate petition to the Faculty dated April 29, 1908, to bring before the governing bodies of the University expression of undergraduate opinion on subjects pertaining to the University, and to co-operate with the Athletic Committee in eradicating any evils in the conduct of athletics. The attainment of this purpose is to be effected in part by direct jurisdiction over individual students, and in part by creating the general sentiment that it is a question of individual and college honor to maintain a strict attention to scholastic duties.

A. MEMBERSHIP

I. The Council is to be composed as follows: (1) the four class presidents, (2) the captains and managers of the five major teams, (3) the chief executive officer of each of the following papers: the Advocate, the Crimson, and the Lampoon, (4) the Vice-president of the Union, (5) three representatives from the Phi Beta Kappa elected by its members, (6) ten members from the College at large elected by their respective classes as follows: 2 Seniors, 4 Juniors, 1 Sophomore, 1 Freshman, (to be elected at the time of the election of class officers, except in the case of the Senior class), (7) President of Phillips Brooks House, (8) Chairman of the Committee on Organization, (9) one member elected jointly by the Glee and Instrumental Clubs, (10) two members elected from the Cosmopolitan Club to represent foreign students, and (11) the President of the University Register.

II. Those men having membership in the Council by virtue of an undergraduate office shall retain their membership until the end of the academic year in which the qualifying office was held. The members elected from the College at large shall retain their membership until their successors are elected. No undergraduate who is not in good standing at the College Office shall be eligible for membership. No member of the Council who fails to maintain good standing shall continue as a member of the Council. The Student Council shall appoint members to fill any vacancies that may occur. This constitution may be amended by a two-thirds vote of the entire Council after three weeks' notice of such change has been given to the undergraduates.

B. MEETINGS

I. The Council shall meet at least twice in each academic year. The first meeting shall be held within one week after the annual election of members. The president shall be empowered to call special meetings.

II. A quorum shall consist of a majority of the members.

C. OFFICERS

The officers of the Council shall be a president, a vice-president, and a secretary-treasurer, all of whom shall be Seniors. The president shall preside at all meetings, and shall have the power to cast a vote only in the case of a tie. The vice-president shall, in the absence of the president, assume all his powers. The secretary-treasurer shall perform all the duties regularly pertaining to that office, and shall act as vice-president of the University Register. All officers shall be elected at the first meeting of the Student Council after the election of members.

D. COMMITTEES

I. Executive Committee. There shall be an Executive Committee of seven members, of whom five shall be Seniors and two Juniors. The officers of the Council shall be ex-Officio members of the Executive Committee. The two remaining Seniors and two Juniors shall be elected at the first meeting of the Council, shall report on its actions to the Council at the first regular meeting of the Council subsequent to the actions in question, and shall have this report published in the Crimson as soon after its presentation as expedient. The Executive Committee shall have the power to require any member of the Council to investigate and report to it on any subject in the field of the Council's activity. The Executive Committee shall hold office from its election until June 1. The Executive Committee shall be empowered to fill any vacancy which may occur among its members. The Executive Committee shall meet at least twice in each month during its term of office. The Executive Committee shall be ex-officio members of the Advisory Committee of the University Register, and shall administer the sinking fund of that publication.

II. Nominating Committee. A Nominating Committee of seven members shall be appointed by the president of the Council before June 1 of each year. The Nominating Committee shall consist of the two Junior Members of the Executive Committee, three Juniors and two Sophomores appointed from the Council at large and the President of the Freshman class. The Nominating Committee shall, after the first two weeks of the academic year and before the class elections, make nominations from which the members at large are to be elected by their respective classes. Twelve Seniors, 10 Juniors and 8 Sophomores shall be nominated. Additional nominations for delegates from any one class may be made by petition of 50 members of that class. Such petitions must reach the Nominating Committee at least 48 hours before the elections. The Nominating Committee shall assume all the functions and powers of the Executive Committee from the first day of June to the time of the election of an Executive Committee by the Council in the following fall.

E. POWERS OF THE COUNCIL

(1) To advise the executive of any student organization open to competition as to the conduct of such organization. (2) To obtain through the College Office necessary information pertaining to the undergraduate body, such as marks, cuts, absences from Cambridge, etc. NOTE.—The purpose of the above is to enable the Council to have at all times exact data so that it may give warning to individuals, teams, etc., and to assist in the maintenance of the required standard. (3) To investigate any infringement of College rules that it may see fit, with the power of recommendation to the University executive. (4) To confer with any of the governing bodies of the University or any member thereof, upon any subject pertaining to the undergraduate body. (5) To regulate all mass meetings and student demonstrations, athletic, political, or otherwise. (6) To prohibit any man who shows an indisposition to respect the recommendation of the Council from becoming and remaining a member of any athletic team, musical club, theatrical club, etc. (7) To confer with the Athletic Committee on athletic questions with the power of recommendation as to schedules, etc. (8) To execute all further powers the Faculty may see fit to grant it. (9) To publish annually, through a board of editors sanctioned by itself, the Harvard University Register.

AMENDMENTS

I. The President of Phillips Brooks House Association shall be a member of this Council ex-officio.

II. The Chairman of the Committee on Organization shall be appointed from the membership of that committee by the Executive Committee of this Council and thereupon shall become a member of the Council ex-officio. He shall choose the other members of the said committee subject to the approval of the Executive Committee of the Council.

Senior Class Constitution

ARTICLE I

MEMBERS.

Section 1.—The members of the class of 1921 shall be:

- (a) All men who are candidates for the degree of A.B. or S.B. in 1921.
- (b) All men who have received, or who will receive their degrees as of the class of 1921
- (c) All men who are fourth year special students.

Section 2.—Men in the University not included under any of these classifications who entered with the class of 1921 but who are not officially registered with the class of 1921 may on petition receive the right to vote with the Class.

Section 3.—No man who has voted in any previous Class Day election shall be eligible to vote.

Section 4.—A provisional list of members of the Class shall be compiled by the nominating Committee hereinafter mentioned, and shall be posted before the first Friday in December.

Section 5.—Any man whose name is not on the list of members of the class compiled by the Nominating Committee may petition the Committee to enter his name thereon. Such petitions must be delivered to the Committee before the Monday following the first Friday in December, and shall be passed upon finally by the Committee.

ARTICLE II.

OFFICERS.

Section 1.—The officers of the Class shall be First, Second, and Third Marshals, Secretary, Treasurer, Orator, Ivy Orator, Poet, Odist, and Chorister.

Section 2.—The duties of these officers shall be those usually incumbent upon their offices.

Section 3.—The First Marshal shall act as the Class President and the Secretary as Class Secretary until Class Day. At meetings of the Class after Class Day the First Marshal shall preside, and in his absence, the Second Marshal, and in the absence of both, the Third Marshal.

Section 4.—The Treasurer shall be a regular member of the Class Committee. The three Marshals and the Secretary shall be ex-officio members of the Class Committee.

Section 5.—Senior Class Officers shall hold office for life.

ARTICLE III.

NOMINATION OF OFFICERS.

Section 1.—Before December 1 of the Senior year, the President of the Class shall appoint a Nominating Committee of five members, no one of whom shall be a member of a final club or shall be generally considered a candidate for a Class office other than a committee.

Section 2.—The Nominating Committee shall have general charge of the Class Elections. Before the Friday preceding the second Wednesday in December, it shall nominate at least two candidates for each Class office.

Section 3.—Additional nominations for Class offices may be made by petition of twenty-five members of the Class to the Nominating Committee; such petitions, with the exception of those for Secretary and Committee-men, must be received before Monday preceding the second Wednesday in December.

Section 4.—The election of Senior Class Officers, with the exception of Secretary and Class Committees, shall be held on the second Wednesday of December

Section 5.—Every elector shall vote for three candidates for Marshals, indicating his preference for First Marshal. Of the three elected, the candidate receiving the highest number of votes for First Marshal shall be declared First Marshal; of the other two, the one whose total vote is higher shall be Second Marshal, and the other one Third Marshal.

Section 6.—Within twenty-four hours after the election of Marshals and other Class officers, the Nominating Committee shall make nominations for Secretary and the Class Committees. Additional nominations may be made by petition of twenty-five members of the Class to the Nominating Committee; such petitions must be received before the Saturday following the second Wednesday in December.

Section 7.—The election of the Class Secretary and the Class Committees shall be held on the Tuesday after the second Wednesday in December.

Section 8.—Every elector shall vote for two candidates for the Class Committee, three for the Photograph Committee, and seven for the Class Day Committee. The two candidates receiving the highest number of votes for the Class Committee, the three candidates receiving the highest number of votes for the Photograph Committee, and the seven candidates receiving the highest number of votes for the Class Day Committee shall be declared elected. Each Committee shall elect its own Chairman.

Section 9.—If for any reason any office or position becomes vacant, the vacancy shall be filled by that candidate who received the next highest number of votes for that office or position.

Section 10.—Every ballot not containing the required number of names for Marshals or the respective Committees shall be declared invalid for the Marshals or those Committees.

Section 11.—The Australian ballot shall be used in all Class elections.

ARTICLE IV.

MEETINGS.

Section 1.—Meetings shall be called at the discretion of the President, or within six days after the receipt of a petition signed by twenty-five members of the Class, stating the proposed discussion to be brought before the meeting. The purpose of all meetings and the subjects to be discussed therein should be published by the President two days before said meetings.

Section 2.—At meetings of the Class, except those for constitutional amendment, a quorum shall consist of seventy-five members of the Class.

Section 3.—Roberts' Rules of Order shall govern the proceedings of all meetings of the Class.

ARTICLE V.

AMENDMENTS.

Section 1.—This constitution may be amended by a two-thirds vote of members present at a special meeting.

Section 2.—Notice of this meeting, together with a statement of the nature of the proposed amendment, shall be published one week previous to the said meeting.

Section 3.—At all meetings for questions of Constitutional Amendment a quorum shall consist of a hundred and seventy-five members of the Class.

Section 4.—Any proposed amendment to this Constitution shall be presented first to the Executive Committee of the Student Council, which shall have the right to report through its representative concerning the amendment, at the meeting in which said amendment is to be voted upon.

Constitution for Three Lower Classes

ARTICLE I.

MEMBERS.

The members of the class of — shall be:

- (a) Men registered at the College Office as of the Class of —.
- (b) Men who entered College with the Class of — and who have not voted with another class.

ARTICLE II.

OFFICERS.

Section 1.—The class officers shall be a President, a Vice-President, and a Secretary-Treasurer, elected in the manner hereinafter provided.

Section 2.—The duties of the President shall be to preside at all meetings, to make a public statement of class finances twice each year, and to assume other duties usually incumbent upon his office.

Section 3.—The duties of the Vice-President shall be to assume the Presidential duties in the absence of the President.

Section 4.—The duties of the Secretary-Treasurer shall be to preserve all class records, to have general oversight of all financial matters, and to render to the President twice each year the financial statement which is to be made public as provided in Article II, Section 2.

Section 5.—The three officers shall have power to levy uniform class assessments and appoint all non-elective committees.

Section 6.—All officers shall hold office until their successors are elected.

ARTICLE III.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

Section 1.—In the Freshman year the Student Council shall have general charge of the class election and shall determine the date thereof.

Section 2.—In the Freshman year, the Executive Committee of the Student Council shall make not less than two nominations for each of the Freshman Class Officers. These nominations shall be published at least one week before the election.

Section 3.—Additional nominations for Freshman Class officers may be made by petition, each petition to be signed by thirty-five members of the Freshman Class. Such petitions shall be received by the Executive Committee of the Student Council until forty-eight hours before the election.

Section 4.—In the Sophomore and Junior years, the class officers of the previous year shall constitute a nomination and election committee and shall have general charge of the elections which shall be held not later than the twenty-fifth day after the opening of college.

Section 5.—In the Sophomore and Junior years, the committee defined in Section 4 shall publish not less than ten days before the date set for the elections a list of two and not more than two nominations for each class office. Nominations shall then be made by petition, each petition to be signed by 35 members of the class. Such petitions shall be delivered to the Secretary-Treasurer of the class not later than the third day before the date of elections. The Secretary-Treasurer of the class shall then publish the name of each nominee within twenty-four hours after receiving it. On the fifth day before the date of elections, a complete list of nominations to date shall be published with a statement that additional nominations will be received until the third day before elections.

Section 6.—In the Sophomore and Junior years, should no petitions be received for any one class officer, the committee composed of the class officers of the previous year shall make one additional nomination for that office and may make two.

Section 7.—The system of preferential voting described below shall be used in all class elections. Each elector shall indicate his order of preference for all the candidates for each office. A first choice shall count one, a second two, and so on. The candidate receiving the lowest numerical total shall be declared elected. Any ballot on which all the candidates for any office have not been voted upon shall be declared invalid for that office.

Section 8.—The Australian ballot shall be used in all class elections.

Section 9.—No man who has held any class office shall be eligible for any class office again until Senior year.

ARTICLE IV.

COMMITTEES.

Section 1.—The Class Officers shall appoint a committee on Finance, which shall be empowered to collect all Class dues.

Section 2.—The Class Officers shall appoint other Committees at their discretion.

Section 3.—The three Class Officers shall be ex-officiis members of all Committees.

ARTICLE V.

MEETINGS.

Section 1.—Meetings shall be called at the discretion of the President, or within six days after the receipt of a petition signed by twenty-five members of the Class stating the proposed discussion to be brought before the meeting. The purpose of all meetings and the subjects to be discussed therein should be published by the President two days before said meetings.

Section 2.—At meetings of the Class, except those for constitutional amendment, a quorum shall consist of seventy-five members of the Class.

Section 3.—Roberts' Rules of Order shall govern the proceedings of all meetings of the Class.

ARTICLE VI.

AMENDMENTS.

Section 1.—This constitution may be amended by a two-thirds vote of members present at a special meeting.

Section 2.—Notice of this meeting, together with a statement of the nature of the proposed amendment, shall be published one week previous to the said meeting.

Section 3.—At all meetings for questions of Constitutional Amendment a quorum shall consist of a hundred and seventy-five members of the Class.

Section 4.—Any proposed amendment to this Constitution shall be presented first to the Executive Committee of the Student Council, which shall have the right to report through its representative concerning the amendment, at the meeting in which said amendment is to be voted upon.

ARTICLE VII.

TERM OF THE CONSTITUTION.

AMENDMENTS

To Article III.

Section 10.—Any election of class officers shall be declared valid if sixty per cent or more of the members of the class affected shall have voted.

Section 11.—If at any election a sufficient number of votes are not cast at the first ballot, further ballotings shall be held at intervals of not more than ten days, suffrage being restricted to those members who have not already voted, until a sufficient number of votes have been cast.

Phi Beta Kappa

ALPHA CHAPTER OF MASSACHUSETTS

Founded 1781

PURPOSE: To reward scholarship.

The Society elects eight men from the twelve highest in the Junior class and twenty-two from the forty-four highest in the Senior class who shall best represent the scholarly activity of the College. In order to meet exceptional cases where persons have shown distinguished excellence in scholarship but have failed to stand sufficiently high in sheer grades to qualify for the previous election, the Senior members may choose five additional Seniors, and five more Seniors who attain unusual distinction at graduation.

The annual dues of the Society are $10.00; and the Club room is in the South Tower of Memorial Hall.

Weekly dinners are held in the Society's room and prominent members of the Faculty are invited as guests and speakers. The graduates also hold a series of dinners during the year. Phi Beta Kappa Day, the Monday of Commencement Week, is the occasion for literary exercises, always of the first rank for scholarly value. Such men as Ralph Waldo Emerson 1821, Oliver Wendell Holmes '61, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, LL.D. (hon.) '59, have read poems at these meetings. Among the men who have delivered orations on these days are Edward Everett 1811; Joseph Story 1798; Charles Sumner '30; Charles Francis Smith '56; James Bryce, LL.D. (hon.) '67; Charles William Eliot '53.

Phi Beta Kappa is thus the highest reward for intellectual endeavor in the College and at the same time an inspiration to her members in the application of that ability.

Scholarships, Harvard College

The names of holders of Scholarships in Harvard College are arranged in three groups, in accordance with votes of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences.

The first group of holders of Scholarships is made up of those undergraduates whose work in the preceding College year entitles them to "very high academic distinction." No student is admitted to this group until his record for the preceding year, in all his courses, has been carefully inspected and the question of his fitness has been submitted to every one of his teachers. Only very high grades in his studies and concurrent testimony in his favor from a sufficient number of his teachers enable the Committee on Scholarships and other Aids for Undergraduates to recommend him for a position in the first group.

John Harvard Scholarships are given only to students deemed worthy of a position in the first group.

The Harvard Graduates' Magazine, a quarterly of about 200 pages, was founded in the autumn of 1892 to furnish a permanent record of the events most important in the life of the University, and to give alumni an opportunity of knowing from authentic sources the facts of graduate and undergraduate life. The first number was published in October, 1892. William Roscoe Thayer '81 held the position of Editor for twenty-three years.

The magazine includes contributed articles, chiefly by alumni, reports from the various departments of the University, summaries of student life and athletics, the official minutes of the Corporation and Board of Overseers, marriages, necrology, an important department of news from the classes, and literary notices. It is published quarterly, on September 1, December 1, March 1, and June 1.

Communications for the Editor should be sent to Mr. A. S. Pier, Hyde Park. Business communications should be addressed to Mr. W. H. Wade at the office of the magazine, 99 State St., Boston. The annual subscription price is $4.00.

Harvard University Gazette

The Gazette is the official medium for announcement by the several Boards, Faculties, and Administrative Officers of the University, and for the announcement of lectures, conferences, readings, and concerts.

It is published weekly during the academic year at the subscription price of $1.00 for the year.

The Harvard Crimson

The Harvard Crimson, the daily paper of the University, is a descendant of the "Echo", founded in 1879. The "Echo" died in 1881, and was followed by the "Herald." In the fall of 1883 the "Herald" consolidated with the "Daily Crimson," and from this combination dates the unbroken career of the present paper, although the present title, "The Harvard Crimson," was not decided upon until 1891.

In 1919 the "Crimson" absorbed the "Harvard Illustrated" and established a photographic board for the purpose of publishing a fortnightly pictorial supplement.

"The Harvard Crimson" aims to perform two main functions: first, to keep the undergraduates informed of the progress which is being made by the various organizations of the University, and by its representative teams; second, to preserve in its files a complete record of all the University activities as a matter of reference.

To make the paper as news editors, candidates must survive a twelve weeks' competition, during which they are required to scour the University for news. The business management is in the hands of undergraduates chosen for their ability to acquire advertising and to handle practical business problems. There is also an editorial-writing competition. The news competitions are held for men in the last half of Freshman year and in both halves of Sophomore year. The business manager's competition is held in the first half of Sophomore year. The editorial writers may compete in both halves of Junior year. Photographic competitions are open to members of the Freshman and Sophomore classes.

The Crimson Building is No. 14 Plympton Street. The subscription price, $4.50 for the College year, is accepted there.

Harvard Lampoon

The Lampoon is the College comic paper, and is the oldest humorous publication in America. It was founded in 1876 but was discontinued after Class Day, 1880. In 1881 it was revived and has continued, uninterrupted, to the present time.

The Lampoon is published fortnightly during the college year at the Lampoon Building on Bow St. Telephone, Cambridge 54222. The subscription is $3.00 a year; $2.50 to undergraduates.

The traditions of British and American humor continue inviolate in its pages. Several who today with pen and pencil freshen the world's jocund floods of laughter were trained under its tutelage. Its satire never fails in its healthy effect, when affectation becomes too obvious in college or in life in the world. Perhaps this is the reason why among the graduate editors are numbered such a large percentage of the country's critics and men of letters.

The Harvard Magazine

The Harvard Magazine, the monthly magazine of general interests, is an innovation in the field of college publications.

From its inception in the spring of 1919 its aim has been to publish the best there is in literary, comic, and pictorial effort from Harvard and Radcliffe, and at the same time to appeal to the interests of all college men. Hence the Magazine includes short stories, poetry, athletic articles, pertinent editorials, and jokes, with cartoons and illustrations.

Regular undergraduate competitions are held for election to the board of literary, art, and business editors.

Yearly subscription (8 issues): one dollar.

Address: The Harvard Magazine, Box 114, Cambridge 38, Mass.

The Harvard Law Review

The Harvard Law Review was founded in 1887 by a few students of the Law School, who before that time had associated as a law club. It is the oldest of the student legal publications. The management is entirely in the hands of a board elected from among the highest standing men in the second and third year classes. These men write all the editorials, dealing with current decisions of the courts and current legislative policies. Longer articles of interest are contributed by the law Faculty and by eminent lawyers.

The magazine is published monthly during the college year, the price per volume being $4.50.

The editorial offices are in Austin Hall, and the business office is in University Hall.

Harvard Theological Review

The Harvard Theological Review, issued by the Faculty of Divinity, is an undenominational theological quarterly, established by the aid of the bequest of Miss Mildred Everett, daughter of Rev. Charles Carroll Everett, D.D., Bussey Professor of Theology in the Harvard Divinity School, 1869-1900, and Dean of the School, 1878-1900.

The Review aims to include discussions in the various fields of theological study and also in the history of religion, ethics, education, economics, and sociology, in their theoretical and religious aspects. It is designed to serve the needs not only of clergymen and scholars, but of all who are interested in religious thought and in the place and function of religion in modern life.

Remittances and communications on business matters should be addressed to the Director of the Harvard University Press, Cambridge, Mass. The subscription price is $2.00 for the year.

Harvard University Register

The Harvard University Register is published annually by the Student Council in order to give those interested in College affairs not only a concise and complete record of Harvard activities, but also a convenient book of reference and general information in regard to students' organizations, and complete directories of the University with an index of each man's activities. In its recent development this publication has aimed to become more and more an undergraduate year book, an ornament as well as a necessary adjunct to a student's desk.

Except for 1918-1919, when war conditions prevented, the Register and its forerunner, the Index, have been issued without a break since 1873, making it the second oldest continuous undergraduate publication. It has had a checkered history, but since 1911 has been issued by a board appointed by the Student Council.

The Register is issued about the first of December, and statistics are corrected to November 1st.

The price in Cambridge is $2.50 a copy.

The Phillips Brooks House Association is a federation of the several religious organizations of the University, and unites, chiefly through them, the men in the University interested in religious and philanthropic work. Special committees of the federal organization have charge of the Information Bureau, established at Phillips Brooks House at the beginning of each year, the issue of the Harvard Handbook, the Phillips Brooks House Class Day Spread, the Chapel, the direction of the social service work, the Harvard Mission, and the work in the graduate schools.

In the Randall Room of Phillips Brooks House are kept the combined libraries of the various societies, the books of which may be withdrawn by any member of the University.

Since 1907 the association has managed a Text Book Loan Library, stocked with gifts of text books from students. These books are loaned to students who cannot well afford to purchase them.

Harvard University Christian Association

The Harvard University Christian Association is the oldest, the largest, and the most comprehensive of the constituent societies of the Phillips Brooks House Association. The object of this association is to promote Christian life and work in the University. Its special activities include the dormitory and lecture classes for the study of the Bible and discussion of religious problems, the holding of regular Tuesday evening meetings in Phillips Brooks House, the work among new students and foreign students, and the maintenance of a reading room, open to all members of the University; but the Association regards itself as responsible for its reasonable share in the social service and miscellaneous work of the House.

No sectarian lines are drawn in the Association, and church membership is not prerequisite for membership; but the Association endeavors to bring together the men who are striving to be Christians, to promote in each the development of an intelligent and vital religious life, and to cooperate in the extension of the Kingdom of God.

St. Paul's Society

The St. Paul's Society is the organization of Episcopalians in the University. Its purpose as expressed in its constitution is "to bring together churchmen connected with the University and to give them opportunities for work and worship agreeable to the spirit and forms of the Church." A monthly corporate Communion of the Society is celebrated the second Sunday of every month at nine o'clock in the Cathedral Church of St. Paul, Boston. Other services of the Society are: weekly services in the Society's Chapel in Brooks House every Tuesday evening at 6:45 o'clock and the monthly college service at the Cathedral. At the opening of the college year a reception is tendered incoming churchmen in the Christ Church Parish House and during the year several dinners are held at the Cathedral.

To furnish opportunities for active work, the Social Service Secretary is at all times prepared to supply positions to such men as desire them. The Society also has a library.

St. Paul's Catholic Club

Formed in 1893 to bring the Catholics of Harvard into closer relationship with one another, to promote their religion, and to make known the good will existing between Catholics and Non-Catholics in this University, St. Paul's Catholic Club has grown steadily. It now occupies the Newman House, 34 Mt. Auburn Street.

The officers wish to meet personally all Roman Catholics in the University, especially Freshmen and those coming from a distance. At the meetings prominent clergy and laymen address the club on interesting topics. All Non-Catholics are assured of a cordial welcome at any of these lectures.

The permanent chaplain is the pastor of St. Paul's Parish, or any assistant he may appoint.

Graduate Schools Society of Phillips Brooks House

The Graduate Schools Society is a constituent society of the Phillips Brooks House Association organized in 1909 to promote the religious, philanthropic, and social interests of students in the Graduate Schools of Arts and Sciences, Business Administration, School of Architecture, and Harvard and Andover Divinity Schools. An opening reception is held for all graduate students, also social functions in conjunction with the Radcliffe Graduate Society. On alternate Wednesday evenings, members meet for informal discussions on current religious and economic problems. Throughout the year a number of authoritative speakers address the Society on various questions of national interest.

Christian Science Society

The Christian Science Society, which is not associated with the Phillips Brooks House Association, has for its primary aim the affording of an opportunity to show how practical use of Christian Science may be made in the problems of college life. Meetings are held on the first and third Friday evenings, in Phillips Brooks House, and are open to all members of the University. A part of each meeting is devoted to an informal discussion of how spiritual teachings can improve the individual's health and morals, broaden his capacity for college work, eliminate his fear of examinations, and enable him to be more discriminating in judgment. A reception is held at the beginning of the college year to welcome new students. Lectures are given from time to time by members of the board of lectureship of The First Church of Christ, Scientist, Boston.

Social Service

The Social Service Committee of the Phillips Brooks House has charge of all the social service activities undertaken by students of the University, all of which are intended to bring to the service of the community the resources which the University possesses in the leisure time of the students, and to give them "laboratory practice" in serving the community. These activities include leadership in boys' clubs, teaching night classes for foreigners and working men, and Juvenile Court and Associated Charities work.

The department is in charge of a Social Service Committee with offices in Phillips Brooks House. Several conferences are held during the year; most of these are open to the University and to the head workers of the various settlement houses.

The Harvard Mission

The Harvard Mission consists of a Student Committee and a Graduate Board of Directors, who represent the organized effort "to arouse, maintain, and increase the interest and participation of Harvard men in the work of Christian Missions." The Mission at present undertakes three distinct lines of work: (1) to develop an interest in missions and the general work of reconstruction on the part of students in the University, by study groups, conferences, and addresses; (2) to keep the Harvard representatives in touch with each other and Harvard men at home, by correspondence and printed reports; (3) to bring Harvard men in touch with specific opportunities in educational, evangelistic, and other service in foreign lands.

The Choir, composed of about 60 men chosen from the University by competition, sings regularly at morning prayers and Sunday morning services in Appleton Chapel. In addition, the Choir gives concerts in Cambridge and elsewhere, chief of which are its well-known Christmas concerts in Appleton Chapel.

The exceptionally fine performances of the Choir in the past few years have earned for it a very high reputation, and its concerts are always well attended and highly praised.

Registered Clubs

CLUBS AT HARVARD

The number of clubs in Harvard has been the subject of no little jesting on the part of undergraduates and graduates who forget for the time being that the birth of a new interest leads naturally to the formation of a group to pursue it; who forget that the "club" may be merely a unit of association for the pursuit of a particular idea, and not a secluded organization of men who are simply congenial socially. The usual form of the joke is "Let's form another club and hang another medal on our walls."

We haven't time for the jokers. More serious-minded critics say there are too many clubs in college, but they do not specify for what there are too many. If the existence of so many different interests seems cumbersome for the moment, they should realize that the very strength of the college is the widespread undergraduate interest in every direction. They should realize that no man need come to Cambridge and be without the facilities to follow his own taste, to develop his own talent, or to conceive a new enthusiasm which he never knew before lay asleep in him.

These organizations are often classified and divided into eight groups: social, scientific, language and culture (a too pretentious word), musical, debating, political, dramatic, and territorial. We have no intention of dazzling anyone with the array of them. We know that no man will display fitful flashes of interest in various directions only to let them die out as soon as he has made a club, unless he is goaded by a false ambition. And we want to make it clear that real interest is the primary qualification for entrance into any one of these organizations. The disappointing man in the college community is the man who loses his interest after he is in a club and who is not always entirely to blame, since membership in two or three clubs must divide his time and prevent his paying entire allegiance to the one for which he is best suited.

Let us consider these interests separately:

Social.—Among the purely social organizations are the Union, the Institute of 1770, the Pi Eta Society, the Fraternities, certain sectional clubs, the "waiting" clubs, the "final" clubs, and the Hasty Pudding Club. The Institute, an ancient and worthy society, elects one hundred men from the Sophomore Class, the first eighty of whom become automatically members of the D.K.E. The Institute members are chosen in tens beginning in October or November, and the elections continue every week or two.

The Pi Eta Society, with an active membership of 100 men, elects the majority of its members from the Sophomore and Junior Classes. This Club lays stress on the democratic character of the organization. Its elaborate musical shows, given in its own theatre, are often worthy of high praise.

The fraternity houses are in most cases run as clubs; i.e., although men eat and spend their free time in the houses, they do not actually use them as dormitories.

There are three "waiting" clubs: the Iroquois, the Phoenix, and the S. K. As the name "waiting" club implies, they serve merely as temporary quarters until men are elected to a final club. The final clubs are the A.D., the Delphic, the D. U., the Fox, the Fly, the Owl, the Porcellian, and the Spee. The members of the final clubs, and also of the "waiting" clubs and fraternities are elected according to the club agreement which follows this article.

These social clubs, like the other clubs in college with more defined interests, are properly considered as a means for development and friendship, but not as a goal for the "social climber's" ambition. The fact that many prominent men are not members of the prominent clubs casts no reflection on the men or on the clubs. The social club at Harvard holds the same position that a men's club holds in any city.

Scientific.—There are two clubs of men interested in chemistry, one a branch of a national chemistry association, and one local. At their meetings they are addressed by prominent chemists, as a rule on phases of the science which are of unusual or contemporary prominence. The botanical club has about twenty members. A club of the same size is composed of men who are specializing in landscape architecture. A club of drawing and architecture men has less than a dozen members. The engineering society and two mathematical clubs have a large membership in the graduate schools, mostly of men who are taking advanced work. The natural history society is an undergraduate body with a score of members, and the anthropological and zoological organizations are made up of both undergraduates and graduates. The wireless club is made up almost entirely of undergraduates. The scientific clubs are necessarily closely affiliated with class-room interests, and as is the case in the language and "culture" clubs, members of the Faculty are sometimes prominent members of the clubs.

Language and Culture.—The Cercle Francais, for members of the University who speak French, forms a link between the college and France. It devotes considerable time to sociability and conversation, and presents a play each year in French. The Circulo Espanol is a similar organization. There are clubs made up of men who are interested in the literature of the modern languages, and in Greek and Roman, Hebraic, and Scandinavian culture.

Musical.—Harvard has many thriving musical clubs. The glee, mandolin, and banjo clubs take men by competition, and the orchestra, called the Pierian Sodality, holds a similar open competition for membership. These clubs give concerts in Cambridge, and make trips to other cities. The Musical Club proper is composed of men interested in music for its own sake, among them several members of the Pierian.

Debating.—The lively interest in public speaking and debating is guided by the Debating Council, an upper class organization, the Freshman Debating Society, and the Delta Sigma Rho.

Political.—Interest in political clubs runs high in campaign years. The Republicans, Democrats, and Socialists have their organizations, members of which engage in practical campaign work.

Dramatic.—The Dramatic Club focuses serious interest in the drama and presents semi-annually original plays, with actors and stage hands from its own membership. Two primarily social clubs, Pi Eta and the Hasty Pudding Club, also produce plays annually, usually presenting an original musical comedy. Dramatic ability influences the qualifications for membership in these organizations.

Territorial.—The territorial clubs embrace organizations of students from various sections of this and other countries. The Cosmopolitan Club should be mentioned here. It is an organization of men from every part of the world, formed to foster the cosmopolitan interest which must arise from any such association.

This army of clubs and societies and leagues and associations may stagger you if you look at them all at once, but taken singly they make the best tonic Harvard can give. These clubs are all for men who want to open their eyes, to learn more, to investigate, whether they call it work or play. It is not a sombre sort of investigation: it is as serious as any pursuit undertaken willingly must be; but it is made buoyant by that very vigor of enthusiasm which gave rise to it.

There is a whip in Harvard for every man's hobby.

CLUB AGREEMENT

The subscribers to this agreement, which is printed in full below, are the A. D. Club, Alpha Phi Sigma Club, Alpha Sigma Phi Fraternity, Argo Club, Delphic Club, D. U. Club, Fly Club, Fox Club, Iroquois Club, Kappa Sigma Fraternity, K. G. X. Club, Owl Club, Phi Kappa Epsilon Society, Phoenix Club, Pi Eta Society, Porcellian Club, S. A. E. Fraternity, Sigma Alpha Mu Fraternity, S. K. Club, Spee Club, Stylus Club, Theta Delta Chi Club.

The agreement signed with the above named clubs is as follows:

Canvassing

1. Canvassing is here defined as "reading" or speaking or making to any undergraduate any statement or representation about any club, or notifying him directly or indirectly that he is or is not under consideration as a future member of any club.

2. Each club shall prohibit its undergraduate members and its members-elect (meaning thereby persons notified of their election but not yet initiated) from canvassing any undergraduate before the opening of College in his Sophomore year.

3. Each club shall request its graduate members to consider it a point of honor not to canvass any undergraduate in any way before the opening of College in his Sophomore year.

Pledging

4. No pledge or promise shall be accepted or taken from any undergraduate before the Friday following the fourth Monday after the opening of College in his Sophomore year by any club or by any member thereof to the effect that he will join any club or that he will not join any other club, and any such pledge or promise, whether originating in misunderstanding or otherwise, shall not be binding upon such undergraduate or upon any of the said clubs agreeing hereto, but shall be regarded by everybody as null and void and contrary to the spirit of this agreement.

Date of Election

5. No club shall elect as a member any undergraduate before the fourth Monday after the opening of College in his Sophomore year, or before that time pledge or promise election, even by implication, to such undergraduate.

Date of Notice of Elections

6. No club shall give notice to any undergraduate of his election earlier than the Tuesday following the fourth Monday after the opening of College in his Sophomore year.

Clubs Concerned

7. No club shall take as a member any undergraduate from the class of 1918 or subsequent classes, who has accepted election before the Friday following the fourth Monday after the opening of College in his Sophomore year to any other social club or society which takes in less than 100 members from a college class. The Advisory Committee shall have power to determine what organizations come within the meaning of this rule.

Institute of 1770

8. The clubs shall urge their members to change the elections to the Institute of 1770 so that the membership therein shall be increased to at least 150 men from each class, and that they shall be initiated therein at the rate of at least 15 men a week, beginning as early as possible in the Sophomore year.

Advisory Committee

9. Each club shall, annually before Commencement Day, appoint a graduate representative to serve throughout the following year on an Advisory Committee, which Committee shall elect its own chairman, who need not be a representative appointed by a club, and shall consider matters arising under this agreement and such modifications thereof as may seem desirable. The powers of this committee will be advisory only, except that it shall be the duty of this committee to take suitable steps to make this agreement known to all persons concerned.

When in Effect

10. This agreement shall be effective with relation to the members of the class of 1918 and subsequent classes.

Duration

11. This agreement shall continue without limitation, except that any club may withdraw after giving one year's written notice to the parties hereto.

Publicity

12. That all parties affected by this agreement may be fully cognizant of its contents, it is hereby provided that:—

(a) The provisions of this agreement affecting candidates shall be made public in such manner as the Advisory Committee shall determine;

(b) The agreement shall be read at the first meeting of every club held after the opening of College;

(c) The agreement shall thereafter remain posted in some conspicuous place in each club house.

13. Inasmuch as the successful working of this agreement depends upon the strict observance of all rules herein contained, each club member shall consider it a matter of honor to maintain such rules.

For the furtherance of these it is hereby provided that:—

(a) At stated intervals during the year the presidents of all the clubs that are parties to the agreement shall meet to discuss any question which may have arisen as to the working or infringement of the rules;

(b) Any complaint shall be at that time reported;

(c) Any disputes arising between any of the parties shall be submitted to arbitration in such form as the Advisory Committee shall determine.

Pierian Sodality of 1808

The Pierian Sodality of Harvard University is America's oldest musical society. Founded at Harvard in 1808 for the purpose of encouraging interest in choral and instrumental music and social life among its members, The Pierian Sodality has successively reared at the college a glee club, a chamber-music society, the Harvard Musical Association, a musical club and an orchestra. It was mainly responsible for the founding of the Music Department at Harvard—the first in an American University—and took an active part in the founding of the Boston Symphony Orchestra. The Sodality is now chiefly interested in the maintenance of a concert orchestra.

Membership is both active and honorary being chosen from the University and its graduates.

G—SOCIALThe Harvard Union

8 Quincy Street

The Harvard Union has begun its second year as an organization under University management. Before the War, when the Union was not directly a part of the University, membership was generally felt to be rather a duty than an opportunity, but the new regime began on an entirely new theory: that the Union must be made an attraction which every man in college would find worth while to join.

In order to achieve this goal, a complete change was made in the organization and activities of the Union. Its affairs are now administered by a Governing Board and an Undergraduate Committee, each of which meet every week to discuss all matters of policy and business. The members of the Undergraduate Committee are elected by the members of the Union, the Vice-President by all the undergraduates. The President and Governing Board are chosen by the President and Regent of the University from recent graduates whose interest in the work of the University and the Union makes them especially fitted for their position. Such government has, as its ideal, to make the club a common meeting ground and attraction for all Harvard men when in Cambridge.

Turning now to the new activities which the Union has undertaken, we find that it has become more and more the social centre of the University. The foundations of this growth were laid a year ago, when dances and buffet lunches were first considered as practical. This Fall the Union has given seven afternoon and two evening dances, and during the Winter it proposes to give a regular series of four Saturday evening dances. Following the plan of the New York Harvard Club, afternoon tea is served in the Living Room from four to six o'clock every day, and this offers undergraduates and members of the Faculty an opportunity to bring guests to the Union at this time. Facilities are now also provided for serving light refreshments at all hours of the day throughout the building and, in fact, for providing all the service which ordinarily goes with large men's clubs.

One of the chief bug-bears of Harvard to non-Harvard men, particularly in the West, has been the lack of hospitality here shown to visitors and visiting athletic teams. In the matter of entertaining distinguished visitors, the Union is now co-operating with the Secretaries to the Corporation of the University in giving dinners and receptions, and in providing committees to show such guests the College buildings and the undergraduate publications and clubs. During the Fall, the Union inaugurated a plan which it proposes to continue throughout the year. Tickets of admission to the Union were sent to all visiting teams, and these tickets included the privileges of attending all entertainments given in the Union, and urged the men to make the university club their headquarters while in Cambridge. Many Centre and Princeton undergraduates and graduates attended the dances and luncheons given during the week-ends of their stay in Cambridge.

This growth of the Union as a host for outside colleges has in no way diminished its importance within Harvard University. On the contrary, there has been an increase, ever since 1919, in the number of organizations giving dinners, dances, and holding special meetings at the Union. Such organizations now come from every branch of the University. It is very seldom now that there are not at least five large meetings, banquets, or dances in the Union every evening.

This year, through the generosity of a graduate member of the Union, it has been possible to offer a number of special prizes. During the Fall a tennis tournament was held, which attracted over 175 players, including the most prominent members of the University team. The singles championship was won by J. P. Pollard, '24, who defeated Morris Duane '23, captain of last year's Freshman tennis team, who had in turn defeated L. A. de Turenne, captain of the present University team. De Turenne and Duane were comparatively easy winners in the doubles. During December, a pool and billiard tournament was held in the Union, and another is to be staged during the Winter term. Four prizes of $50 each have been offered to the Freshmen members of the Union who achieve, by mid-years, the highest standard in scholarship and general class activities. These prizes are to be awarded by a committee chosen by the Freshman Dean. The Library Committee of the Union is to judge the two best essays submitted by members before February 15th, and award the $150 which is to be given in prizes for these essays.

The most attractive of all the features at the Union has been the lecture program of distinguished men which was begun last season and continued this year. The following men have already spoken at the Union this Fall:

General Marie Fayolle, Governor James M. Cox, Frederick H. Gillette, Crawford Vaughan, former premier of Australia; Mark Sheldon, Commissioner from Australia to the United States; General Georges R. Nivelle; Harry Snell, of the British Labor Party; James Keating, special envoy of Czecho-Slovakia; Whiting Williams, expert on labor problems; Mark Sullivan, famous American political correspondent; Vilhjalmur Stefansson, the Arctic explorer.

Among those men who are to come in the new year are:

Dr. Wilfred T. Grenfell, pioneer in relief work in Labrador; Thomas W. Lamont, of J. P. Morgan & Co; Herbert Hoover; Theodore Roosevelt, Jr.

As a result of this unprecedented growth in the activities of the Union during the past two years, there has been a tremendous increase in membership. The total for last year was nearly 1700, while that for this year already exceeds 2,200. Even more important, however, has been the increase in the number of men using the Union and the service which is offered. A special theatre ticket agency, by which seats at the leading Boston theatres may be obtained over the phone, has been established in the news-stand, and guest cards have been provided by which any member of the Union may put up a guest for two weeks, provided the latter be ineligible for membership. The number of persons using the restaurant, which was larger last year than before the War, has increased again this year, while the attendance in the library and the reading rooms of the Union has doubled in a year.

Thus, the Union seems, at last, on its way to becoming what its founders had desired it to be—the centre of life at Harvard.

Rules Governing the Wearing of Numerals

In Football, a man must play on a Freshman team against Yale or on a class team winning the interclass championship.

In Track, a man must win a place in the Freshman meet with Yale, or in the interclass games, or one of the first three places in the Freshman cross-country race with Yale; or run in a winning Freshman relay team against Yale.

In Crew, a man must go to Red Top with the Freshman crew squad or row on a class crew winning the interclass Championship. (Freshman crews are not considered in awarding numerals for interclass championships.)

In Baseball, a man must play on a Freshman team against Yale.

In Hockey, a man must play on a Freshman team against Yale.

The Freshman Managers in major sports, and, in Crew, the Assistant Manager, get their numerals.

Basketball

In the fall of 1919 the Department of Physical Education organized basket-ball practice as one of the indoor exercise activities open to Freshmen. The Athletic Committee voted to recognize basket-ball as a regular freshman sport and approved a schedule of games with preparatory school and college freshman teams. Business School, Law School and class teams were also organized during the winter season.

As a result of the interest manifested in the game during the 1919-20 season, the Student Council recommended, and the Athletic Committee approved of basket-ball as a university minor sport. Mr. Edward Wachter, Jr., was appointed coach, and he is now working with a large squad of basket-ball enthusiasts who are candidates for the university and freshman teams. With the proper support on the part of the student body, basket-ball should soon become one of the important winter athletic activities at the University.

IT'S ONE GOOD SMOKE

And the minute you touch a match to a pipe load you'll know it. Then when you've smoked it all down to the last grain — when you've had plenty of time to appreciate its fragrance and flavor and you realize that your throat is as moist and cool as when you started, you'll say with us, IT'S PERFECT PIPE TOBACCO.

Directory

Of Officers and Students in all Departments of the University and Index of their College Activities

The italic letter or letters following the name indicate in what department or school the student is enrolled:—And., Andover; B., Bussey Institution; B. U., Boston University School of Theology; C., College; Dn., Dental School; De., Divinity School; E.S., Engineering School; E.T.S., Episcopal Theological School; G., Graduate School of Arts and Sciences; G.B., Graduate School of Business Administration; L., Law School; M., Medical School; N.T.I., Newton Theological Institution; S.A., School of Architecture; S.L.A., School of Landscape Architecture. A.O. stands for Astronomical Observatory, F.M. for the Fogg Museum of Art, G.M. for the Geological Museum, M.C.Z. for the Museum of Comparative Zoology, P.M. for the Peabody Museum, and U.M. for the University Museum.

The numbers 1, 2, 3, and 4, preceding these letters, indicate the Freshman, Sophomore, Junior, and Senior Classes respectively in College, or the first, second, third, and fourth years in the Schools. Sp means special student; gr, graduate student; u, unclassified student; ocC., candidate for Bachelor's degree, out of course.

If an officer is on "leave of absence" for the year or the first half-year, his name is bracketed.

Addresses followed by an asterisk (*) are in Boston; all others are in Cambridge, unless stated to be elsewhere. It will be noticed that the number precedes the name of a street, but follows the name of a building.

Names of buildings are abbreviated as follows:—A., Andover Building; Bn., Boylston Hall; C't, Conant Hall; D., Divinity Hall; G., Grays Hall; Gnt., Gannett House; H., Hollis Hall; H'ke, Holyoke House; H'y, Holworthy Hall; M., Matthews Hall; P., Perkins Hall; S., Stoughton Hall; T., Thayer Hall; U., University Hall; W., Weld Hall; W. H., Walter Hastings Hall.

The Freshman Dormitories are abbreviated as follows:—Go., Gore Hall; G. S., George Smith Hall; J. S., James Smith Hall; P. S., Persis Smith Hall; Sd., Standish Hall.

Names of places are abbreviated as follows:—B'kline==Brookline; Ch's'n==Charlestown; Dor.==Dorchester; Jam. Pl.==Jamaica Plain; Rox.==Roxbury; Somer.==Somerville.
